

Thought For The Day

You are responsible lift your game.
No one but for you
and in the present now can be doing anything about your attitude and life outlook.

Challenges beget a human being while on earth, so why at all, if ever, care about who you are and can be and do?

How am I to maintain sanity in a World in decline going mad.

We are a complete and utter mystery but contain enough faith to believe our life is worthy to try to reach for higher levels of being.

Life exceptional
not Americalism

Do not be a-feared by others, intellectual or otherwise.
Do not denounce without cause your value-full self otherwise,
life on the fastest lane to death as your soul weeps, laments and cries out, having no more power than a deflated tyre on a vehicle of immense mechanical genius.

Softly, softly gently, gently comes in waves I know but what of a humanity do they, in all this corruption understand how futile if and when this World explodes?

Hit the mark in the world and personally in the everyday to survive humanity's cry for no more war.
Life rife with strife;
corruption and greed usurps wealth and life style acceptability to survive.

Come to me and grieve,
action not necessary if death there your choice.

How am I to love you if you think and believe you are unlovable?
God said why bother, man ignorant of his own birth – worth.

Promises contain airless views unless undertaken, considered; thought of as a time to review

People come and go.
People live and know little about how they endure and survive a most prestigious ride.

Living in among so much incredible, delectable circumstance to learn but still decide and prefer to deny Western Civilization style.

The mighty hand of God is barking down the wrong trail if you don't check against your heart first.
